

Human Reproduction Study Group Annual Conference

Education on the Life Cycle of Fertility and Reproduction

9.30am – 5pm, Wednesday 12th June 2024

The Alan Walters Building, University of Birmingham

CALL FOR PAPERS

We warmly invite our academic friends and colleagues to this summer's in-person Human Reproduction Study Group Annual Conference and look forward to seeing previous contributors, and new faces.

As always, we welcome theoretical, methodological, and empirical papers on all social aspects of human reproduction. We encourage papers on the topics of (but not limited to) everything from family planning to menopause; screening, prenatal care, and pregnancy, to childbirth and postnatal care; on reproductive loss, technologies, and justice; and on care, negligence, and anything 'taboo'.

This year we are particularly keen to receive contributions that include thought to education – past, current, or future possibilities – in relation to fertility and reproduction. We encourage you to think about new medias, and technologies, trends and social attitudes, policies, and cultural influences.

We welcome abstracts from researchers across the social sciences and from colleagues working in social policy, economics, demography, law, parenting culture studies, midwifery, sexual and public health, and nursing. We also encourage students and early career researchers to respond to this call.

ABSTRACT SUBMISSION

Please submit abstracts of up to 250-300 words by 17:00 (BST) on Friday 19th April 2024 to bsa.hrsg@gmail.com. Abstracts should include a title, your institutional affiliation, and career stage.
