

Citizenship, Gender and Diversity Call for Proposals

Series Editors

Sevil Sümer, Professor of Sociology, Norwegian University of Science and Technology (NTNU), Norway

Nicky Le Feuvre, Full Professor of Sociology, University of Lausanne (UNIL), Switzerland

Line Nyhagen, Professor of Sociology, Loughborough University, UK

About the Series

This series publishes groundbreaking work on a broad range of topics relating to citizenship, gender and diversity. It promotes a feminist definition of citizenship, encompassing issues of equal rights, recognition and belonging in various socio-economic, cultural and political arenas. We welcome submissions from scholars around the globe, working on these topics from a range of theoretical and empirical perspectives, particularly with an international, cross-national, or comparative focus.

We are particularly interested in receiving proposals that examine citizenship related to the following themes:

- Sexualities and gender identities, including LGBTQIA+
- Women's and other social movements
- Religious institutions and practices
- Sexual and gender-based violence
- Environmental justice and activism
- Migration and mobility
- Work, employment, care
- Anti-gender movements
- Abortion, sexual & reproductive health
